

Knowledgebase > Products > Why can I measure an impedance between DC power and chassis ground?

Why can I measure an impedance between DC power and chassis ground?

- 2024-09-19 - Products

All devices which do not have a galvanically insulated internal power supply - mainly these are the Emerson switches FP and MD - have a built-in impedance of 3 MOhm to discharge capacities.