Industrial HiVision

Hardware change

Renew License

If you have to change hardware where Industrial HiVision is running on (because of a crash or leasing), the licenses will not work on the new machine.

The web application also offers a dialog for a hardware change

Since Industrial HiVision 4.0 all licenses (including temporary licenses) are bound to a hardware key.

You will see the necessary steps on following pages.

© 2017 Belden Inc. | belden.com | @BeldenInc

IMPORTANT

- The Hardware Change changes all the licenses that have been generated for that Hardware Key.
- If you have 2 licenses bound to 1 Hardware Key it is not possible to make a Hardware Change for just one of the licenses.
- The old Hardware Key is blocked and can never be used again.

Register HiVision

If you want to register a full version

Please have the blue product certificate available. You will need it to complete the registration process. You will also need your hardware key (see below).

Request a license key (registration required)

If you want to create a trial license

Follow this link and select "Create temporary license". Please note: Industrial HiVision will run for 30 days without a license. The temporary license is used to extend the evaluation period by an additional 30 days. The temporary license should only be used after the initial 30 day evaluation period has expired. A hardware key is required (see below).
